Course of Study.

In the Course of Study adopted and herewith presented, an attempt is made to provide for the actual requirements of the Academy in its dual work of preparing boys for college, and of giving them a good English Education.

In its relation to its local patronage, the Academy is both a Grammar and a High School. A five years' term of study is consequently provided.

Resident boys will be received as pupils in the Academy whenever they can enter upon the prescribed course. Non-resident pupils will be assigned to classes upon the merits of an examination.

Resident and College Preparatory pupils will be advanced from grade to grade on written examinations. Pupils may complete the course in four or three years if they have the requisite ability.

ELECTIVE STUDIES. German, French, Instrumental Music, Bookkeeping, Mechanical Drawing, Telegraphy, Trigonometry and Surveying.

A series of lectures on History, Political Science, Astronomy, Natural History, Electricity, Magnetism and Literature, will constitute a feature in the regular course of instruction.

Our Aim.

It is our aim to have a College Preparatory School that will afford advantages at least as good as those afforded by the best preparatory schools, East or West, for fitting boys thoroughly for any of our American colleges. To the attainment of this end, two things are absolutely requisite — a competent teaching force, and earnest pupils. The Academy has provided the former and its pupils have entered with credit the colleges to which they have been presented.

The course of instruction is divided into departments. Each department — Latin, Greek, Mathematics and the Sciences — has its master. With an ample corps of instructors, multiplicity of classes is made practicable, and close grading facilitated. Students of marked ability and application, who wish to accomplish their preparatory work in less than the prescribed time are encouraged to do so, and special classes are made for them. In this way some of our students have been fitted for college in two years.

During the present Academical year, instruction has been given to about forty classes daily. The following is the classification of the branches of study: Latin, nine classes; Greek, seven; German, five; Arithmetic, four; Algebra, five; Geometry, three; History, two; Philosophy and Bookkeeping, two; Chemistry, Physics, Physiology and Trigonometry, one each. Reading, Writing and Spelling have had a daily place in our school exercises, and one hour each week has been devoted to a familiar talk or lecture upon the subjects of English Literature — Authors and their works — and Political Economy.

The advantages arising from departmental instruction, need not be enlarged upon. In the example that Adam Smith gives of perfect labor, many workmen are required to make a single pin to advantage. Just as effective is the distribution of labor in the education of the pupil; with a skilled workman in each department, the student is fashioned into a more perfect scholar.

Again, it is our aim to have a school safe in all respects for a boy of tender years; physically, morally and religiously safe. We would not forget that our boys are the "coming men;" that as such, they will make the State. The State has need of men of full stature, physically strong, morally pure, religiously Christian.

We object to the use of tobacco and wine by boys, on physical grounds. Of the two evils we believe the former the more baneful, because of its greater prevalence. We are fully persuaded that neither should have the least possible license in school life.

We would enforce obedience to reasonable rules and regulations on political grounds. The State has need of men trained to obey.

The reading of bad and worthless books or papers is a demoralizing agency among boys. We would give them Dickens and Scott, Hawthorne and Irving, Plutarch and Prescott, instead. This, on the ground of good morals. So long as that which goes into a boy is pure, his morals are safe.

Profanity, a crying evil among boys, must be met with the Thus Saith the Lord: Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.

We shall try to conduct our school with tobacco, alcohol, dime novels, and profanity, eliminated.

With our aim thus briefly set forth, we submit our second catalogue to our patrons, grateful for the patronage of the present year, and hopeful of the future.

LAKE FOREST, ILL.

LAKE FOREST is finely located on the bluffs of Lake Michigan, twenty-seven miles north of Chicago. Its sylvan features, system of ravines, and lake front, give it great natural beauty, which has been so far developed by landscape gardening as to make the place one of the most charming suburban towns of the Northwest. It is a town of beautiful estates and Christian homes. Quietude and culture are eminently its characteristics, affording advantages and lending those finer influences desirable in study-life.

The Academy Building is centrally situated, spacious, well proportioned and well appointed with a view to health, comfort, and efficient administration. It contains a large and very pleasant School Room, with its attendant Recitation and Music Rooms, Library, and fifty Students' Rooms. The Students' Rooms are all commodious, sunny and cheerful. A large Gymnasium stands upon the Academy grounds.

Lake Forest is almost proverbially healthy, and the numerous trains on the Milwaukee Division of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway render it easy of access at nearly all hours of the day.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Boys twelve years of age and upward will be received, provided they are sufficiently advanced to enter upon the prescribed course of study with advantage.

Boys needing a Reform School discipline are not desired and probably would not be retained if admitted.

Boys are required to attend Church and Sabbath School regularly on Sundays.

The use of Tobacco by pupils in the Academy is deemed injurious and expensive. It is consequently forbidden.

Profanity is deemed both degrading and wicked. It will not be tolerated.

Some evils are believed to grow out of an unregulated use of spending or pocket money among boys. Patrons are desired to deposit with the Principal at the beginning of each term, the allowance for the term. Postage Stamps, Stationery, and unnecessary damage to school property, will be deducted from this allowance. An account will be kept with each boy, and a statement of the same furnished to patrons at the end of the term.

Boys living near Lake Forest, whose parents desire it, will be permitted to visit their homes, from Friday to Monday, once in five weeks: Provided, their school work and deportment shall have been satisfactory. This indulgence will be purely a "Reward of Merit."

Boys will furnish their own carpet, bedding, towels, napkins and ring, lamp and mirror. The rooms are furnished with stove, bedstead, mattress, table, chairs, bureau wash-stand, bowl and pitcher.

The text books in use can be obtained at the Academy. By obtaining them there, pupils will have a uniform edition, which is desirable in class work.

It is desirable that boys have two Bibles, one for the school room, another for private and church use, a copy of Songs for the Sanctuary, and an English Dictionary.

Catalogues may always be obtained at Messrs. Jansen, McClurg & Co.'s Book Store, 117 and 119 State Street, Chicago. Parties wishing to consult the Principal may generally find him at the same House, on Saturdays, from 12 to 1 o'clock.

The institution is furnished with apparatus designed to illustrate the principles of Natural Philosophy, Astronomy, Mathematical Geography, and a Laboratory for chemical experiments. It has a Geological Cabinet, and the nucleus of a Conchological Collection.

THE ACADEMY LIBRARY

contains 650 volumes, embracing Books of Reference, History, Biography, Poetry, Science, Religion, and Fiction. Plutarch, Rollin, Hume, Merivale, Macaulay, Prescott, Motley, Headley, Webster, Irving, Bayard Taylor, Dickens, Scott, Hawthorne, Ruskin, Figuier, Proctor, Shakspere, Mrs. Browning, and the British Poets are fully represented.

In addition to the Academy Library, Students of the Academy have free access to the new and admirably selected College Library containing 2,000 volumes.

EXPENSES.

For Tuition and Board, including partially furnished room, fuel, lights, washing (one dozen pieces per week), care of room and care of clothing :

Per school year of forty weeks,	$400 00
For additional expense in fuel, lights, and care of room, a boy occupying a room alone, will be charged extra,	15 00

Use of Piano (20 lessons),	5 00
Mechanical Drawing (20 lessons),	10 00

Boys will be charged from date of admission, during actual membership. A boy however may not withdraw at his own option, and will be considered a member of the school until his father or guardian has notified the Principal of the withdrawal.

Term bills are payable in advance, the year being divided, as a matter of convenience, into three terms ; the first and second of fifteen weeks each, the third of ten weeks.

Patrons will best consult their own interests by making prompt remittances. Boys whose bills are paid can be better taught and better disciplined, than if not paid. Better flour, meat and butter can be bought with money than with credit. The Principal can do far better school work if entirely free from financial perplexities. All bills are payable to the Principal.
